El Paso automobile dealers, their guests and hundreds who came here as spectators made Saturday the red letter day of the Southwest automobile show.

Saturday night, which was designated as "society night," was featured by music by English cavalry band, under direction of Lieut. W. R. Vanover.

E. J. Pritchard, of the chamber of commerce estimated that 18,000 persons saw the show during the three days.

From Thin To Plump— Girls

The expression of happiness and gratitude of several of the young lady patients for whom he prescribed the recently successful thin forming product, known as Paris Garters, is related by a physician in one of the medical publications and it comes as a surprise to the ordinary layman to learn the heart trouble of distress which seems to affect so many young people who are abnormally thin.

Also to know that the weight can be so readily increased by the use, regularly for several months, of this peculiarly named preparation, now obtainable of the best apothecary shops in sealed packages with complete instructions for self administration.—J.B.

TRIALS AND TROUBLES OF TEETHING TIME

BEING A BABY IS THE MOST DANGEROUS
PROFESSION IN THE WORLD

Too much heat, a little over-feeding and it is so easy for the delicate organs to become disordered.

The most critical period of babyhood is when its teeth are coming through. Especially so if this occurs in summer time. It causes fever, frets, its gums become inflamed, fever sets in and with its vitality thus lowered, it is subject to serious stomach and bowel troubles.

And the awful result is that fourteen percent of them never reach childhood.

At the first notice of even the slightest constipation or diarrhoea give War's Baby Powder according to directions.

War's Baby Powder is a simple and every effective chemical remedy which for over thirty years has been saving babies' lives.

It is not a stupefying narcotic nor a gripping purgative. It is an antiseptic remedy which purifies the contents of the stomach and bowels and kills the germs hidden there.

It is tasteless. When mixed in sweetened water, really tastes like milk. It is absolutely harmless.

If a whole bottleful were in your baby's stomach at once, it couldn't possibly hurt it.

Here is a sample of what hundreds of grateful parents are saying:

"Dear Sir: I hardly know how to express myself in regard to your Baby Powder. Shortly after our baby learned to walk his bowels became affected, and notwithstanding unceasing attention, he daily grew thinner and more feeble."

"It was the opinion of the physicians that his mesenteric glands were rapidly failing. He had long ceased to walk and someone was with him always."

"At last we heard of your powder, and securing a bottle, much to our surprise, the next day he seemed much better. This improvement went on until now, three weeks since taking the final dose, he runs about and is as healthy as any two-year-old in the country."

"Of course we can not say enough in praise of War's Baby Powder. Yours gratefully, Mr. and Mrs. Parks, 118 St. Joseph St., Dallas, Texas."

Watch the Little Pimples; They Are Nature's Warning

Unightly and Disfiguring Signs of Bad Blood.

Don't close your eyes to the warning which nature gives, when unightly pimples appear on your face and other parts of the body.

Not only are these pimples and spots disfiguring, but they lead to serious skin diseases that spread and cause the most discomforting irritation and pain. Sometimes they foretell eczema, boils, blisters, sores, eruptions and other annoyances that burn like flames of fire, and make you feel that your skin is ablaze.

When these symptoms appear on any part of the body, take prompt steps to rid the blood of these disorders. And the one remedy which has no equal as a blood cleanser is S. S. S., the purely vegetable blood medicine, which has been on the market for more than fifty years. It is sold by druggists everywhere.

If you are afflicted with any form of skin disease do not expect to be cured by lotions, ointments, salves and other local remedies, as they can not possibly reach the source of the trouble, which is in the blood. Begin taking S. S. S. today, and write a complete history of your case to our chief medical adviser who will give you special instructions, without charge. ## Bedtime Stories For The Little Ones UNCLE WIGGILY AND LULU'S LANTERN. By HOWARD GARRIS.

"I DECLARE I don't know what I'm going to give that child," quivered Mrs. Wibblewobble, the duck lady, one day as she stood in the kitchen of her pen house.

"What is the matter, and about whom are you speaking?" asked Uncle Wiggily, who was watching Nurse Jane Puffy Wussy peel coconuts to make an orange pudding.

"It is Alice," exclaimed Mrs. Wibblewobble. "Since she got over having the mumps she hasn't any appetite at all. She eats hardly anything and just sits in the house looking out of the window. She is getting so thin and poor that her feathers hardly stay on her. I do wish I could get her to eat something."

"Let me try," begged Uncle Wiggily. "I'll go in and see if I can't make her hungry by mentioning a lot of good things that duck girls like to eat."

So Uncle Wiggily went in the room where Alice was sitting in an easy chair made out of an old clam shell. The duck girl really looked thin since she had got over the mumps.

"Wouldn't you like some nice water-cress ice cream, Alice?" asked the bunnymen, smiling like.

"Oh, no, Uncle Wiggily, thank you," quivered Alice faintly like and indifferently. "I am not hungry. I have no appetite at all."

"How about some rose leaf pudding?" asked the rabbit gentleman, curiously.

So Uncle Wiggily gathered the sour grass, and putting this in his pocket, he hopped on to find something else for the poor appetite of Alice.

He had not gone far before he came to a hollow tree, from which came a buzzing sound.

"Here and honey," said Uncle Wiggily to himself. "I'll get some sweet honey for Alice to eat after she has taken the sour grass."

The rabbit gentleman knocked on the door of the hollow tree and asked the queen bee to give him some honey for Alice's appetite.

"Certainly, Uncle Wiggily," buzzed the queen bee, and she gave him a long jar full of honey.

After that Uncle Wiggily gathered some sassafras hollyhock, some dandelion pancakes, some sweet flag crackers and a few other dainties like that for the appetite of Alice.

He was just starting back home with them when, all of a sudden, out from behind a stump, jumped the bad old Pipsawah.

"Here! What are you doing on my land?" growled the bad Pip.

"I—excuse me—I didn't know this was your land," said Uncle Wiggily. "And I was only getting things for Alice to make her eat, you know. She has lost her appetite."

"Well, I haven't lost mine," growled the Pip. "I am still as hungry for some as ever, and here's where I get yours. But first I'll see what you have for Alice."

The Pip put his paw in Uncle Wiggily's pocket and pulled out the bunch of sour grass.

"What's that?" cried the bad chap. "I guess I'll eat that first before I take any of your sour."

The Pipsawah stuffed a big bunch of the sour grass in his mouth. It was like lemon, and one should only take a very little of it. But the Pip took a lot and, oh! what a funny face he made!

"Oh, sassafras! Sassafras! Wah-wah! Zump!" howled the bad chap, as he felt his tongue all puckered up. Then he made forty-seven different kinds of funny faces and, turning a back somersault, away he ran to get a drink of water, leaving Uncle Wiggily and his source and all the rest of the things alone.

"Well, it's lucky I picked such a lot of sour grass," said the bunnymen, and plucking up what was left, he hurried back to Alice with all the things for her appetite.

"Oh, she'll never eat!" said Mrs. Wibblewobble, hopeless like.

"Wait until I show her what funny faces the Pip made," laughed Uncle Wiggily. Then he stood in front of Alice, and told what had happened.

"First he made a face like this," said the bunnymen, and he screwed his nose up until it looked like a cruller. "And then," went on the bunnymen, "he made another face like this," and he made his ears look like a baby carriage.

"And then he—"

"Oh, stop, Uncle Wiggily! Oh, stop! He's not here! Oh, stop! Please don't make any more funny faces!" giggled Alice, and she laughed so hard that her liver turned right-side up again (for it was wrong-side over) and then, all at once, her appetite came back, and she nibbled the sour grass, and showed the honey and munched the sassafras crackers and she ate everything that the bunnymen had brought her—all because she had laughed at the funny faces.

"Well, I do declare!" quivered Mrs. Wibblewobble. "I never would have believed it!" So this teaches us that it is better to laugh than to cry. And if the cat doesn't tickle the gold fish with its tail and make the canary bird swing backward, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Jimmie's journey.—Copyright, 1924, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.
